A LIST OF THE WORLD'S RECENT AND FOSSIL SALAMANDERS

By ARDEN H. BRAME, JR.

The Southwestern Herpetologists Society was founded in 1954 in Orange County, California, and then guided by the late Wesley Dickinson to encourage and inspire young herpetologists. The Orange County group is now acknowledged as the parent branch organization. In September of 1966, the San Gabriel Valley Branch was formed and they incorporated the constitution, charter, and bylaws of the parent branch. In February of this year two more branches have notified us of their intention to become affiliated: the South Los Angeles Branch and the San Fernando Valley Branch. It is apparent that the Southwestern Herpetologists Society is growing and expanding rapidly and we encourage young and old herpetologists alike to join one of the branches or, if the situation calls for it, form a new branch. For information, write one of the officers listed on the back cover.

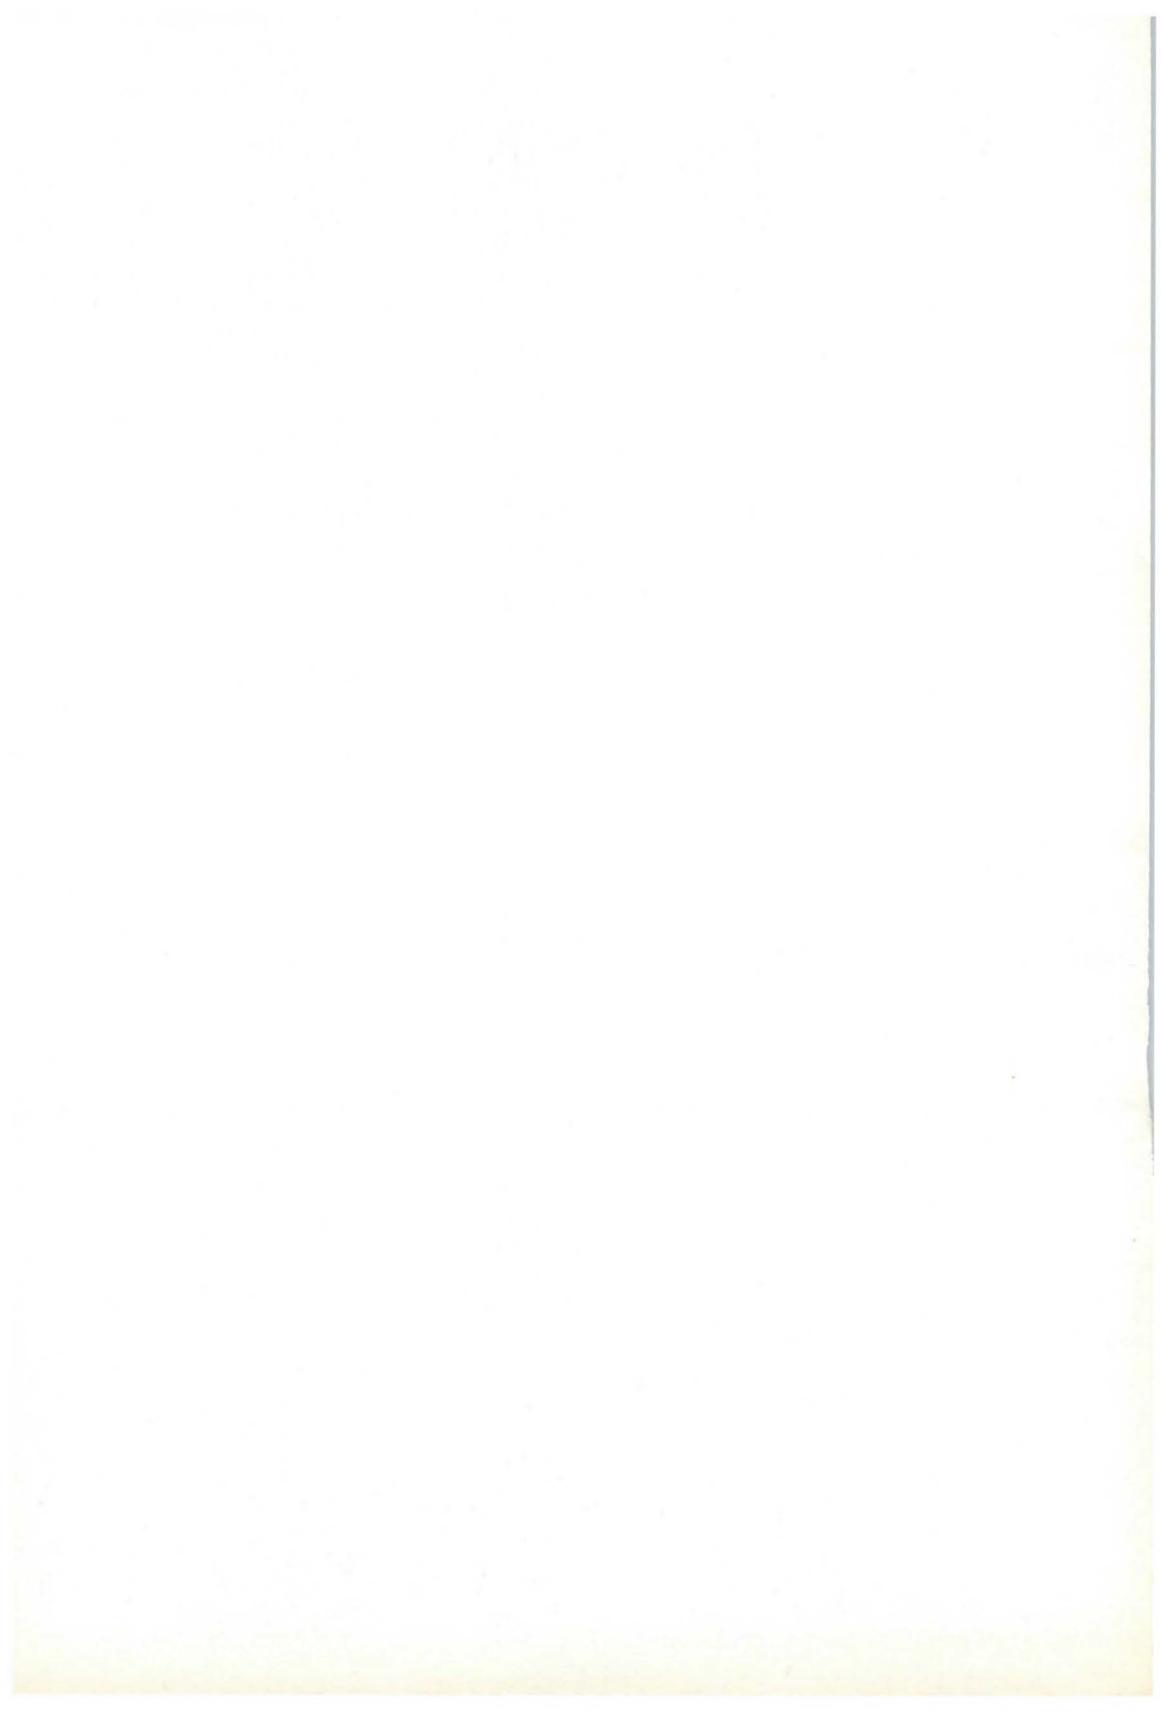

HERPETON is the official publication of the Southwestern Herpetologists Society and is distributed free to all members. Individual numbers, as available, may be obtained at a cost of 50¢ from HERPETON, Southwestern Herpetologists Society, P. O. Box 2054-D, Pasadena, California 91105. All monies from the sale of HERPETON plus Corresponding Membership dues go to the HERPETON publication fund.

The Southwestern Herpetologists Society solicits high quality manuscripts for HERPETON; contact HERPETON, Southwestern Herpetologists Society, P. O. Box 2054-D, Pasadena, California 91105, or an officer of one of the branches. Papers should conform with the 1960 AIBS Style Manual for Biological Journals and be typewritten on one side of 8½ by 11 inch paper, double-spaced, with ample margins. Send the original manuscript to the editor (address above), and keep one copy.

A LIST OF THE WORLD'S RECENT AND FOSSIL SALAMANDERS

By ARDEN H. BRAME, JR.

Nine years ago, two lists were mimeographed for general distribution to herpetologists: A List of the World's Recent Caudata Brame (1957) and A List of the World's Fossil Caudata Brame (1958). The purpose for distributing the above lists was to solicit comments, corrections, and additions by authorities on salamander systematics and taxonomy. The results of the response to these solicitations plus information from the large mass of literature on salamander systematics published between 1957 and 1967, have been incorporated into A Checklist of the Living and Fossil Salamanders of the World which will be published in about three years. Numerous requests have been received for the old lists which regrettably have been out of print for several years. It now seems desirable, therefore, to publish A List of the World's Recent and Fossil Salamanders because of the requests and the delay in the more comprehensive checklist.

The author has taken the prerogative of making judgments in cases where salamander systematists disagree; but for the most part, the taxonomic changes of the latest authoritative reviser have been followed. New taxa, as yet unpublished, are not used. A brief range is given for each species and subspecies, including countries, states, departments, provinces, and occasionally counties and cities.

The mimeographed lists of 1957 and 1958 listed 3 suborders, 9 families, 60 recent genera, 284 species, 414 recent species and subspecies, and 65 fossil species of salamanders. The present list recognizes 4 suborders, 8 families, 54 genera, 302 species, and 440 species plus subspecies of living urodeles. There are at present 76 recognized species of fossil Caudata. This author knows of 10 recent salamander species that will be reduced to synonymy and about 30 recent and 11 fossil forms which will be described as new over the next few years.

Many persons have been of aid over the past 10 years in preparing the checklist and this present list. I wish to thank especially Jay M. Savage and David B. Wake for their continued encouragement and aid. I have followed Wake's salamander classification and in particular, his revised arrangement of the Plethodontidae recently published, Wake (1966).
